

Let's Get to Work

Climate Change, Infrastructure and Innovation

Climate change is no longer a possibility, it's a reality. Hurricane Sandy and the drought of 2012 showed America what climate change could do to our communities, economy and environment.

Climate change — and the jobs that can be created as we work to address its worst consequences — must be moved to the top of the national debate.

The 2013 Good Jobs, Green Jobs National Conference will bring labor union members, environmentalists, business owners, community leaders and elected officials from across the country together in one place for the country's largest dialogue on how to build a cleaner, more efficient American economy.
